THROUGH THE COLUMNS OF THIS EDITION WELCOMES ALL TOURISTS TO MAKE THIS SECTION OF THE STATE ONE OF THEIR STOPPING PLACES IN THE "SEEING OF AMERICA FIRST"—WE EXTEND THE GLAD HAND OF HOSPITALITY—NO MATTER WHETHER YOU COME BY TRAIN, AUTO, AIRPLANE OR ZEPPELIN, YOU WILL BE ABLE TO SECURE AMPLE ACCOMMODATIONS AND EVERYTHING YOU NEED.

Touring has become one of the nation's greatest pastimes and its broadening influence upon the national life is being felt in the molding of the country into one people and the elimination of the old idea of hermitage and aloofness. America Rapidly Becoming One Great Community

In the past decade, transportation and touring have perhaps had more influence upon our national life than any other single factor. With the development of the steam railroad to its fullest efficiency, with its luxurious trains, the electric line, the auto and the bus as well as the rapidly growing air travel we have devised ways and means of getting about that are not only comfortable but are luxurious. The cost of transportation has been greatly decreased by the advent of the auto and now the whole family can cross the continent for a price that is what it formerly cost the head of the family. This mingling of the people has had a great educating influence. Formerly men lived and died in a community and many ventured not many miles from their doorstep thinking that they had the greatest place in the world. Now all communities are rated for what they do and are each in its particular place in the one great community. Barriers such as the Mason & Dixon line are melting away and are, really, only a memory.

Good Roads Lead To Scenic Beauty

The first construction of highways was of necessity on the main lines of travel, but with their completion, we are now entering upon the final phases of this great development and good roads are passing the door of every farm house. This year there will be something like 25,000 miles added to the construction program and it will not be long before they are everywhere. Railroads are consolidating into vast systems that span the continent and the airplane lines are multiplying. It is now no trouble to get about.

Every Family Should Take A Few Weeks Each Year To Tour

Marco Polo was the first great traveler of history and he brought home to his native city and country much valuable information which aided in the education of the people. Since this time we have had many noted adventurers and explorers. Today, every man, woman and child should be a tourist for a part of the year and see the country. It is important for the progress of the nation that all should observe how others are doing. Travel is one of the most broadening of the departments of education and completely does away with provincialism.

Arrange Time For Leisure, Touring And The Art Of Living

America has been a country going at a maddening pace and the story of Manhattan has been "Hurry, Hurry, Hurry." Many think they do not have time to look over the country. All will have time to die. When the hour comes, we take the time. You should arrange a trip to look over the development, the scenery and the progress of this great country.

We are now passing through the evolution of business life caused by the introduction of mass production in manufacture and on the farm. It will eventually give all leisure and time to look around. The more trips you arrange the more you are aiding in the great evolution and drifting toward the age when men will only work a few hours a day.

Good Roads Being Extended To Every Hamlet

For those who love the beauty of nature in all its variety a tour of America offers an excellent reward. One can visit the mountains, the plains, the desert, see the oceans, the lakes and rivers. There is no thrill of natural beauty that cannot be found here. The good roads lead from the northern forest to the coral shores where in a few days you can be transported from the country where it grows almost too cold for permanent abode to the land where you can sit under the palm trees and be fanned by the trade winds. From the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia to the lofty peaks of Colorado and California in only a few days. You can pause in the desert and see the stars and moon at close range. You can pause in Yellowstone or at the base of Mt. Shasta and watch creation putting the finishing touches upon one of its worlds.

Guilmet Beauty Shop

Located At 116 Blake St., Lewiston, Features A Most Complete Beauty Service And Offers Expert Operators—Has The Latest Of Equipment And Appointments—Features Permanent Waving, Marcelling, Manicuring, Waving And Specialties—Phone 789.

The Guilmet Beauty Shop of Lewiston is a worthy contribution to the art of vanity as they combine modern science with all the secrets handed down through the ages that have contributed to the beauty of lovely woman.

The profession of the cosmetician should be one of the utmost importance and we cannot fail in this comprehensive review of our country's progress to devote some space to a well merited tribute to the excellent work performed here.

It is one of the modernly equipped establishments in the district. They have many of the late improved electrical appliances to take care of all phases of beauty culture. This is all fine equipment and is of the very latest pattern. They have quite a few booths and all the service is individual.

Complete sanitation in all its various phases has been provided for. Its interior appearance is immaculately clean, and they use the greatest care at all times.

Their modern methods of permanent wave work produces long, natural waves with entire freedom from kinks. In fact you will never find permanent waving done by their methods in kinks nor short, knotty waves.

The manager has devoted years to the study of beauty culture and the work is a contribution to the art that has made many a lady much more attractive. To aid in bringing out beauty is work that has engrossed the attention of many from the beginning of history. Famous beauties of the olden days devoted their entire life to a study of the art. They had a retinue of maids to look after every phase of the work. Anyone now can get this service. It always pays to look one's best. Mythology tells us that Galatea tamed the dread Cyclops with her beauty and on down through time woman's conquests have been made by her stunning beauty.

In making this review we are glad to compliment The Guilmet Beauty Shop upon the great success they are making.

The service of Mr. Barber's establishment in Auburn is a great accommodation to garages, autoists, transfer firms, manufacturers and farmers and it has demonstrated its right to the leading position held in the business and automotive world of this part of the country.

Frank L. Fleming

Located At 57 Davis Ave., Auburn, Features The Well Known Delco-Light Electric Power And Light Plants And Water Systems—The 1931 Has Many New Improvements—Under The Direction Of An Authority On Rural Engineering And Always Gives Excellent Service.

There is no one whose service has been of greater benefit to the progress and modernization of the state than Frank L. Fleming who offers the people a complete service.

He is a dealer for the Delco-Light and Delco-Light automatic pumps and offers the public a complete service in suburban engineering. No matter what problem you have just call at the office or write in and you will be furnished complete details with costs as to how you can make your place modern in every particular. They are always glad to give estimates and there is no problem in this line that they cannot solve for you.

Mr. Fleming offers Delco-Light and water plants. This is the wonderful product of some of the country's greatest engineering and inventive minds.

It is a compact light plant in itself, carrying as many lights as you desire and more than sufficient for the large country estate. It also provides sufficient power to operate a water system, electric iron, run the churn, cream separator, electric refrigerator or the washing machine. The Delco light plant is made in many different sizes and no matter how large or small a place you desire to light they can fit you out with a plant that will suit your particular needs. They sell much cheaper than formerly as they have placed this concern on a basis of quantity production which gives the people the benefit of low prices.

The late Red Line Delco-Light contains many major improvements as follows: more watts per H. P.; heavier armature; 33 percent greater oil capacity; bigger generator; perfect alignment of brush assembly; new "Tension Control" for uniform brush pressure; "No Arcing" brush; positive "Load Controller"; new throttle "Load Controller"; new throttle insuring proper "Trickle Charge"; oil filter more accessible; greater circumference of generator housing, giving stability to switchboard; fewer parts in brush assembly; better generator ventilation; heavier construction throughout. All these improvements are exclusive with the Delco; they are to be found on no other makes.

In making this review we are glad to point out the advantages of this marvelous invention and to predict its practical universal use in the not distant future. They are in line with modern ideas and should be seen and investigated by all the farm and country home owners of this section of the country.

The Rumford Falls Trust Company performs all duties incumbent upon the complete service of a modern community as the church and the school. In its field it teaches the ed to act as trustee, guardian, executor, the lessons of saving and or in any fiduciary capacity what correct banking is ever.

It occupies its own home which is centrally located and convenient for the business man, the farmer and the tourist and thus appeals to all classes.

Sufficient capital, a large surplus and extensive resources give this institution many major improvements as follows: more watts per H. P.; heavier armature; 33 percent greater oil capacity; bigger generator; perfect alignment of brush assembly; new "Tension Control" for uniform brush pressure; "No Arcing" brush; positive "Load Controller"; new throttle "Load Controller"; new throttle insuring proper "Trickle Charge"; oil filter more accessible; greater circumference of generator housing, giving stability to switchboard; fewer parts in brush assembly; better generator ventilation; heavier construction throughout. All these improvements are exclusive with the Delco; they are to be found on no other makes.

The safe deposit box department offers the public a choice in boxes of all sizes and thus is a great convenience for the keeping of securities and valuable articles.

The following well known men are in charge: Elisha Pratt, president; John Reed, vice-president; Lewis M. Irish, treasurer; E. C. Carrier, assistant treasurer. Executive committee: Elisha Pratt, John Reed, James M. Gregor, Geo. W. Peffengill, Paul C. Thurston.

They are at all times ready to take up with their clients in detail any matter concerning investments and banking, interest and safe deposit departments. These departments are ably administered by the men who have been carefully trained to give the public high class service. The very complete service they render makes it unnecessary to have several banking connections.

A special feature is the savings department. Saving is not hard when you once begin and this bank has left nothing undone in its effort to make banking easy for its patrons. One dollar will start an account in their interest department and the account of our readers to this institution will be given the same attention as one of the distinctive features of the community's financial efficiency as though you were depositing thousands of dollars.

Young's Laundry

Located At 255 Main St., Berlin, Offers A Most Complete Laundry Service According To The Latest And Most Sanitary Methods—Plant Furnished With The Newest And Finest Laundry Equipment—Feature Finished Rough Dry, Wet Wash And A Family Service For Every Purse—Phone 75—Offer An Excellent Opportunity To Some One To Represent Them In Bethel.

Young's Laundry of Berlin is an institution offering the people a service in the finest of laundry work and leaves nothing undone to give the public garments that are clean and spotless.

The problem of laundry work has been one of the troublesome questions since organized society started the wearing of woven fabrics. In the half civilized countries it started by laundering the garments on the backs of the wearers and today this method is used even in the United States among the Indians in the Everglades. The next step was the taking of the garments down to the banks of the river and laundering them on the stones. The family washing and the modern laundry were the next stages of laundry progress. Today with our modern cleanliness and the rapid spread of American plumbing laundry work has become quite a factor in the life of the people. Scarcity of help and the superior processes used at this laundry make its service far more attractive. With the passing of the pioneer days the celluloid collar was thrown into the discard and today the modern citizen must be dressed in linen and fine raiments to meet his fellowman and command respect.

Modernism and chemistry are sometimes carried too far and as a result garments are sometimes injured by processes, but at this laundry they have solved this processes. While the manager uses all processes that are approved by such institutions as The Mellon Institute of Industrial Research yet they rely on clean, soft water which is the natural cleaner of dirty linen and all garments are turned out with that soft daintiness that makes the wearer feel fine as well look good.

At Young's Laundry they offer the best of service and have wagon delivery in much of the territory. Just call them on the phone and they will give you complete information on the service in your neighborhood. In this review of our progress we are glad to compliment them upon the superior service and fine work and to say that they are quite a factor in meeting the people of this section in clean and comfortable linen.

James Shea

TAILOR

At 88 Congress St., Up One Flight, Rumford, offers Tailoring Of Individuality And Distinction As Well As The Most Skillful Workmanship—Has A Large Patronage From Over The Surrounding Territory—Features The Latest Patterns In All Wool Fabrics For Suits And Top Coats At Reasonable Prices.

Mr. Shea of Rumford enjoys the reputation of having a tailoring establishment that turns out garments of individuality and makes the customers present an appearance that gives them a pleasant greeting everywhere they go.

The choosing of proper materials and wearing clothes that are made for you and not for everyone is an important matter. Your worth and standing in the community is determined to quite an extent by your general appearance. This distinction in dress can only be obtained by individual tailoring. This is why people always look twice at anyone wearing clothes from this shop. He is an excellent designer of materials, will aid in the selection of materials, is a cutter of individual work, and all garments are handled by masters in the various process from the cloth to the finished garments.

He has an excellent stock of splendid materials from which to make selections and no matter whether it is one or several suits that you desire you can get a variety of materials that will be suitable for a golf suit, evening dress, business suit or for any occasion.

The fitting here is perfect and there are never cases where a suit when delivered to you fits poorly or begins to lose its shape in a few days. He does his work right in the first place and never has to do it over and turn out in the end a makeshift piece of tailoring.

We are pleased to call the attention of all the people to his excellent services and would suggest that people call around and look over the excellent line of materials now on display and talk over the tailoring situation with him.

Eliot A. Fuller Co.

Located At 183 Main St., Norway, Feature Men's Clothing, Suits, Shoes, Haberdashery And Specialties—Have At All Times A Complete Stock Of The Best Manufacturers—Good Clothes—Nothing Else."

There is nothing so important to the commercial development of the smaller city as an up-to-date establishment where the men of the community can satisfy their demands for clothing and haberdashery. This is the day and age when men, both old and young, must be neatly attired in clothes of distinction and quality.

In this part of the state the needs, desires and demands of the male population are more than satisfied by this well known house. This progressive store is strictly modern and up-to-date and is stocked with a class of goods that would do credit to a much large city. It features a famous line of haberdashery which is proof of their wisdom for this line is found only in the leading establishments.

Their whole line embraces only the highest of quality at the most reasonable price possible. In fact, this has come to be known for miles around as a prominent local store and the fact that they handle such superior quality is but one evidence of the excellent service to the people of this part of the state. Special attention is given to the proper fitting of men and young men and patrons here know that their apparel will be that of both quality and distinction.

The shoe department is featuring not only the latest in shapes but the beautiful new shades which are so popular. They carry street, sport, dress and in fact shoes for all occasions.

This clothing store is one of the very popular establishments of the community. Here you will find that the excellent material and the expert workmanship inculcated into their furnishings renders their apparel that of distinction and quality. That individuality which is so desirable and to obtain a quality of supplies and building material for particular builders and offer a quality of supplies and building materials that is second to none.

In this review we are more than pleased to compliment the manager upon the position occupied by the store in the social, business and home life of this part of the country and to refer the public to the extraordinary service being rendered and to compliment the store upon its extensive stock and deserved success.

Mann's Bakery

At 101 Congress, Rumford, Is One Of The Most Popular Bakeries In This Section And Features Delicious Bread, Rolls, Pies, Pastries And Everything In The Bakery Line—Their Baked Goods Are Fresh Daily—Use Only The Purest Of Materials—Phone 36-500.

This modern bakery has gained a large patronage and the choice bakery products are so delicious that they are continually adding new and modern equipment to supply the demands.

It is very popular and their bakery day makes a very attractive and appetizing setting. Drop along this way when your appetite is dull and the smell of delicious bakery dainties will sharpen it up so that you will be tempted to ravenously devour your food.

This popular bakery pays particular attention to sanitation and uses every precaution in the making of the products as well as in the handling to see that they are pure and fresh at all times.

The bread, cakes, rolls and pastries are made of the very purest of materials. They do not use substitutes but the real article at this institution. They are made by master bakers and according to the recipes that are a secret of this bakery. This accounts for the individuality of the bread.

A specialty is made of cakes and pastries for weddings, parties and special occasions. They have excellent ideas as to what you will need and will assist you in making a choice or will make anything to your own ideas. Special orders are made rich and tasty and are the pride of the shop.

The goods are made from only the purest of materials. They are offered to the people as a very superior line of products made of the real materials. The manager has personal supervision over all the business and gives individual attention to the work.

In this review we are glad to compliment Mann's Bakery upon their superior products, large patronage and to refer this bakery to our readers as worthy of a call.

Robert L. Bickford

Located At 113 Main St., Norway, Is Offering Rare Bargains In Diamonds, Watches, Silverware And Jewelry—Now Is The Time To Buy Precious Stones And Jewels That Will Become Family Heirlooms As The Market Is Right.

Robert L. Bickford is the scene of a continual business as they are abreast of the times and like the other commodities of the market price their goods to attract the wise buyer.

Every family should have diamonds, precious stones, watches and jewelry that are to become family heirlooms. These must be good and attractive. They must conform to the style and dress of the wearer. The manager of Bickford's market has placed his stock at prices that are very attractive to the thrifty and careful buyer. The time to buy for a rise is when things are down. The time to buy at this jewelry store is right now! They have a large stock and will give you ideas and desires their individual attention. In the event that you desire something original they will create it for you and its charm will be the admiration of future generations.

The head of every family who desires to perpetuate the family name should see that all members of the family are the recipients of jewels whose brilliance will outlast time. This has long been the custom in ancient civilization where there is wealth. The jewels of Solomon and The Indian Nabobs; the crown jewels as well as families have become historic. America is now the land of wealth and this is part of our duty to posterity which should not be neglected.

They offer a very complete watchmaking, repair and remodeling department and are prepared to offer complete service. It is best to look over your jewels and have them carefully modernized when there is only the flow of steady business as you are sure to receive the best of attention.

In making this review we are pleased to call the attention of all the people to Bickford's where gems and gold are "fairly sold", and the unusual buying opportunities and service they are offering at this time and would suggest that everyone should take advantage of the diversities of the market.

NEW ENGLAND MILK PRODUCTION 3.8% BELOW AVERAGE

Average daily milk production for all cows as reported by New England dairymen on June 1, 1931, was 7.5% above what it was a month ago but 2.7% below that of a year ago and 3.8% below the five year average for June 1. The increases during this period.

As compared with a year ago milk production per cow was less on June 1 in all of the New England States except Vermont where it was the same. The average production for all cows for New England on June 1, 1931, was 18.14 pounds per cow as compared with 18.88 pounds on May 1, 1931, 18.64 pounds per cow on June 1, 1930, and 18.86 pounds the five year average for June 1. Production per cow in Maine was reported at 16.33 pounds, in New Hampshire at 17.29 pounds, in Vermont 18.52, in Massachusetts 19.55, in Rhode Island 20.64 pounds, and in Connecticut 18.02 pounds.

The proportion of dry cows to all cows in New England decreased about 12% during the past month. On June 1, 1931, the proportion was 16.1% of all cows as compared with 18.3% a month ago and 13.5% the five year average. In Maine dry cows were 18.3% of all cows, in New Hampshire 19.5%, in Vermont 18.5%, in Massachusetts 17.5%, in Rhode Island 23.0% and in Connecticut 18.0%.

Scientists Baffled by

Malignant Tsetse Fly
Ruling a modern empire is not wholly a matter of troops, treaties and trade agents. Shock battalions of scientists may be required to combat native enemies far more menacing than an army of soldiers, according to the National Geographic Society. For example, in known Africa the British recently captured 1,000 enemies in a big-dread insect enemies, the tsetse, which were caught in 18 imitation animal traps. The tsetse fly lives in the bush. When an animal wanders into the bush and is infected by the insect the natives like to region, lost as they did before the swarm of the tsetse flies. The tsetse fly is a much deadlier enemy than the tsetse. It has effectively wiped out populations from extensive areas—areas in Tanganyika as large as California and regions as extensive as other countries in Rhodesia, Nyasaland, Uganda and Zululand. Throughout these units of Britain's political domain cultivated patches of land have been abandoned, farms and ranches have gone back to the bush, and the tsetse fly remains its jealous room.

Hungry London Consumers

Foodstuffs by the Ton
Nearly 450 miles of bread are eaten by Londoners every day. The weekly ration is 15,000,000 loaf-quarter loaves, and, although they vary in size and shape, if they were all of the "sandwich" type, about seven to eight inches long, they would extend if placed in a straight line, for 3,000 miles.

Very large quantities of foodstuffs are unloaded at the London docks every year. The figures for last year, according to a statement made by the port of London authority recently, included 1,400,000 tons of wheat, 280,000 tons of flour, 650,000 tons of chilled and frozen meat, and 100,000 tons of butter.

One interesting figure was $21,000 tons of green fruit and vegetables. And London also imported 420,000 pounds of tea, enough to make 40,000,000 cups, between six and seven every cup of the tea for every man, woman and child in England and Wales.

Quinins Tercentenary
The tercentenary of the first use of quinine was held in St. Louis at Shaw's gardens, October 31 and November 1, 1930. The earliest well-authenticated instance of the medicinal use of cinchona bark is found in 1650 when the countess of Chinchon, the name, the wife of the governor of Peru, was cured of an attack of fever by her administration. The medicine was recommended in her case by the curate of Lora, who was said to have practically experienced its supreme virtues eight years earlier. A knowledge of the bark was disseminated throughout Europe by members of the Jesuit brotherhood, whence it also became generally known as Jesuit's bark. According to another account, this name arose from its value having been first discovered by a Jesuit missionary, who, when prostrated with fever, was cured by the administration of the bark by a South American Indian.

Art Treasures Beyond

All Price in Vatican
It would take volumes to enumerate the treasures of the Vatican. The chapels of San Lorenzo, the Sistine and the Pauline are decorated with frescoes by Fra Angelico, Michelangelo, Perugino and others. Four chambers were decorated by Raphael.

The picture gallery is not large, but the paintings are among the most valuable in the world. Raphael's "Transfiguration" and his "Madonna di Foligno" and his "Coronation of the Virgin," besides some smaller pictures, are here. So are works of Murillo, Titian, Perugino, Correggio, Paul Veronese and others of the greatest of painters.

The museum contains not only many of the most beautiful sculptures in the world, ancient Greek statues, among which are the Laocoön and the Apollo Belvedere, but also great numbers of antiquities, reliefs of ancient Italy, Greece and Egypt.

The library at the Vatican was founded in 1575, and now contains a valuable collection of 60,000 manuscripts and 250,000 volumes of rare books. A recent addition to this collection is the Borgia library and archives presented by Louis Mendelsohn of Detroit, Mich. This library includes many valuable books gathered by Pope Clement IX of Roselli during his pontificate from 1667 to 1693; also a portrait of Pope Clement by Carlo Maratta.

Dayberry Candle Boon

to New England Women

Candles in days gone by were an item of expense to be reckoned with in the gay courts of Europe, as many as 5000 candles on grand occasions when the vestments were to be lit by the grooms. From the demand the making of candles developed into an important industry and laws were passed regulating the size and deterioration of the materials to be used.

When the Pilgrims found themselves on the bleak shores of New England with few facilities for artificial illumination, says the New York Sun, other methods of lighting their homes had to be devised. At first, like the Indians, they used knots of pitch pine to light their cabins, but it was not long until the thrifty New England woman learned that by boiling the little gray bushes that grew on the low wind-swept shores along the coast she could procure a wax which rose to the top of the little berries.

First Sunday School

A century and a half has elapsed since Robert Raikes began his organization of Sunday schools. The credit for the founding of the earliest of Sunday schools, as distinct from the Sunday school movement, however, is claimed for the little spinner Methodist Hanwell Hall, friend of John Wesley, whose first Sunday school was established in High Wycombe, 161 years ago, 11 years before Raikes' historic movement, and is still active. An authority on the subject has stated: "It seems almost certain that John Wesley, who rode on horseback from place to place, and who visited Gloucester, spoke of the work of Hanwell Hall to Robert Raikes, a man of great abilities, who thereupon not only commenced a school but set himself to educate others."—Montreal Daily Herald.

Standard Time

According to the United States naval observatory at Washington, standard time had not come into general use in 1853, no uniform standard existed then. At present, the time zone in which England is located uses the local time of Greenwich, and the time used in London in 1853 was practically the same as the Greenwich time today. Sweden adopted standard time in 1862. Since that date it has used time one hour more advanced than that of Greenwich. Stockholm, no doubt, used its own local time before 1862, which would have been a few minutes more advanced than the time used today. Owing to Greenland's sparse population that country has not yet adopted standard time.

Country's Foggiest Spots

The foggiest spot in the United States bridged a little in 1930, and had only 1,252 hours of fog, so light house keepers at Moose Peak, Me., have reported to the lighthouse service of the Department of Commerce. At Moose Peak, records for the last 10 years show a yearly average of 1,607 hours of fog. Runners up on Moose Peak's record are Lubley Island and Petit Manan, also on the Maine coast. They are foggy a good part of the time, but cannot quite match Moose Peak's figures. The United States lighthouse service states that Point Reyes light station holds the record for fog on the Pacific coast, with an average of 1,358 hours a year for 45 years.—Grit.

Remembered Old Debt

To pay back 50 cents he had borrowed from a schoolmate 50 years ago Ernest M. Ledden, New York, is said to have gone to San Francisco and handed a 50-cent piece to his creditor, Municipal Judge Fritz. Ledden was a student at college in San Francisco in 1880. The two boys wanted to go swimming one day. Ledden had no bathing suit nor any money to buy one, so Fritz lent him half a dollar.

TWO-MINUTE SERMON

by REV. GEORGE LIEBRY

WORKERS TOGETHER WITH GOD

Someone has well said that "Jesus Christ alone can save the world, but that Jesus Christ can not save the world alone." The Master chose twelve men to carry out his plans and purposes—to complete the work he had begun. Human instrumentality can not be eliminated. It is God's way. Therefore man may thwart the purposes of Almighty God. If the church has not accomplished the purpose for which Christ established it, it is not because Christianity is at fault, but because man has failed. Unless we do our part there is no salvation for the individual or for the race.

If then, the triumph of the church depends upon me, shall I not be loyal? Ask yourself this question: "If every member were just like me, what kind of a church would this church be?" Or again, "If every member were such as I, how long would it take the church to die?"

Two small boys were waiting to cross Euclid Avenue in heavy traffic. One said, "Come on, let's go," "No," said the other, "Let's wait for an empty space to come along."

Portland—Bids opened for remodeling Federal courthouse building of this city.

UPTON

The Grange made such a success of presenting their three-act play, "For the Love of Mike," here at the Upton Grange Hall a short time ago, that they are presenting it at the Bear River Grange Hall at Newry Corner Friday evening, June 26, at 8 o'clock, standard time. A good crowd is expected from adjacent towns. There will be dance after the play if there are enough stay for a dance.

SOMETIMES Tom sat tensely at the little writing table for an hour or more writing to his beloved Edith. Sometimes he just sat sprawled out in an easy chair before the fire idly dreaming of Edith, who lived eight hundred miles away and whom he saw but seldom.

This keeping bachelor apartment with a man engaged was beginning to get on Jim's nerves. For weeks, even before Tom was engaged, he had been, as Jim thought, mentally unbalanced.

Perhaps the worst feature of Tom's malady was his apparent joyousness. He sat there with such an idiotic expression of happiness on his good looking face. He whistled like a canary bird when he dressed in the morning. He always thought the weather was fine and he always felt tiptop, in a way Jim envied him.

Kate Fenwick had worked in the same office with Jim for two or three years. Nice girl, Kate was what he thought about her if he thought anything. He saw her and talked with her every day. She usually took his dictation. Sometimes she showed him little things she had bought—wedding presents for girls who were getting married, little toys for her nephews and nieces.

Business was extremely brisk toward spring and it was apparent one Saturday that some special reports would have to be put through on Sunday. The president of the concern asked Jim to attend to them and immediately suggested to Kate Fenwick that she meet Jim at the office to take dictation.

They began working that spring Sunday at nine o'clock and Jim was so interested in his work that he never once thought of Kate as anything more than an automaton until it was past twelve. That was one thing that made Kate such a good stenographer. She was never obtrusive—didn't use perfume or wear dangling bracelets or bright colors.

They finished their work at about the same time and for no reason in particular Jim asked Kate what she was going to do next. Kate looked up, blushing a little, and Jim felt that perhaps he had been abrupt with her. She had worked like a little steam engine and he had never thought of her as being even human. That is why he asked her to have luncheon with him. There were so few places open downtown on Sunday and she lived far uptown. After luncheon he asked her again what she was going to do, and again she blushed and said nothing. "I'm going to take a ferry across the river and then take a walk along the river bank on the other side," he told her. Kate said she envied him and so Jim asked her if she would care to go with him.

Spring in the air made the river bank very beautiful that afternoon, and as Jim and Kate climbed up and down the steep embankments Jim held Kate's round little arm to keep her from slipping. He made no effort to be agreeable or otherwise to this girl whom he saw every day but he began to realize that it was very good to have her with him.

Then they sat on an embanked boulder that looked out over the river below. Jim felt as if he were a thousand miles away from the city. He looked at the shapely hand stretched out on the rock beside him and studied those fingers that had worked so efficiently for him that morning.

It seemed the most natural thing in the world to lift that hand up in his and as it felt very delicate he lifted it to his lips to kiss it. Suddenly Jim felt awkward. He felt as if he had strayed somewhere without knowing how he had come. He began to wonder whether he could trace his steps back again. Then he wondered whether he really wanted to.

"You aren't angry with me, are you—Kate?" he asked.

"Of course not, Jim," she said, and she noticed that tears gleamed in her pretty brown eyes. "You know I have always liked you, Jim."

"And I have always thought you the best stenographer in the world," said Jim, feeling suddenly that perhaps he had better find his way back again. But Kate took her hand away from him and turned, trying in vain to hide a falling tear.

"I think much more than that," said Jim, feeling suddenly very forlorn without that little hand in his. He took it back again and kissed it.

"I'm so happy, Jim—dear," said Kate, and then without knowing how it happened Jim realized that her arms were around him and that her smooth little head was resting on his shoulder.

When Jim got back to the apartment at six that night he found Tom sprawled in an easy chair before the fireplace, in which glowed a few fading embers. Jim took off his light coat and hat and dropped down in a chair on the other side of the fireplace. For an hour the two men sat there—the same rather foolish, contented expression written on both faces. Then when the last flicker of light died from the embers Tom roused himself. He suggested having something to eat.

"Something to eat—that's right—I'd forgotten," stammered Jim. "You see, old pal, I'm engaged."

WHY

Chinese Build Houses With Upturned Corners

Upturned corners have always been an architectural peculiarity of Chinese houses. It has been suggested that the design is an imitation of the outline of the tents that originally the Chinese may have inhabited. Tradition has always inspired them, and the idea gains color from the double roofs that give a reminder of double tents.

Some of the earliest Chinese pictures, however, show that the buildings had then quite a different form. The palaces were large, open halls with flat roofs, adorned with gorgonies, the chief purpose of which was defense from evil spirits of the upper air. Moreover, some of the latest western authorities consider it unlikely that the Chinese ever lived in tents.

"The tradition, therefore, is supernatural rather than material," writes Mrs. Alfred Winge, an authority on Chinese art and culture. In her book, "The Golden Phoenix," its survival shows a sense of humor. According to popular superstition, evil spirits can only fly in a straight line. Therefore, instead of the ugly gargoyle, curve the line of the roof, so that the demon descending and seeking to enter the portal may be tossed back into the upper air.

"The isolated screen-like wall, standing before the entrance of private or official buildings, had the same purpose. Human guests might dismount behind this screen in privacy, but evil spirits, unable to find the door, would be turned back."

Why "Seventh Son" Idea Is Not Wholly a Myth

Since time immemorial the seventh son of a seventh son (or child as some say) was supposed to be endowed with notable talents and supernatural powers. According to an ancient belief which persisted far into the Middle Ages, the seventh son of a seventh son is endowed with the power not only of curing diseases by the laying on of hands but also of predicting magic and foretelling future events. Seven was regarded as a sacred and magical number among many ancient peoples, including the Hebrews, Syrians and Aramaeans. In both the Old and New Testaments seven frequently occurs as a number with a special significance. The ancient belief about the seventh son of a seventh son may have had a slight foundation in fact. Some students of genetics are of the opinion that the younger children of unusually intelligent men are likely to inherit more of their father's mentality than the older children are. This is based on the theory that a man of intelligence generally continues to develop mentally until late in life and the older children have a tendency to inherit only what mental qualities he may have developed at the time they were conceived while the children born later have a tendency to inherit their father's matured mentality.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why Canned Foods Spoil

There are two causes of food spoilage in canning: First, there are products in all fresh fruits and vegetables substances called enzymes. These enzymes bring about the normal ripening of fruits and vegetables unless checked, the final decay of the product. Since heating is an essential step in canning and these enzymes are easily destroyed by heat, it is only necessary to avoid the changes they may bring about in the food between the time it is gathered and the time it is cooked. The second and more important cause of food spoilage is the action of minute plants which are present in the soil, water, and in fact on everything. There are three groups of these plants—bacteria, yeasts and molds. Commercial canning is scientifically done and these dangers eliminated.

Why Stars Rotate

Man has often wondered just what causes the rotation of stars. Here's the answer, according to Dr. Ross Gunn, astrophysicist of the Naval Research Laboratory at Washington: "The rotation of all heavenly bodies is intimately related to the dissipation of matter. In a nonchaining and nonradiating universe the sun and stars would not exist." In other words, the continual loss of matter and weight makes the stars rotate. Doctor Gunn estimates that our own sun loses more than 4,000,000 tons of substance every second and that other stars suffer corresponding losses. Which, of course, supports the contention of many scientists that the old universe is running down.

Why Egyptians Embalmed

The Egyptians believed that after the soul departed from the body it was judged in the Hall of Double Truth before Osiris, the judge of the dead. After it had undergone all its transformations it would return and again enter the body in the tomb. If by any chance the heart was destroyed, it would not be possible for the dead to enjoy life in the world to come.

Why Called "German Silver"

German silver is so called because the first use of it, to any great extent, was made in Germany. It does not contain a particle of silver. It is an alloy of copper, nickel and zinc.

Why "Royal Fish"

The whale and sturgeon are known as "royal fish" because they belong to the king of England when washed ashore or caught near the coast.

ARIZONA'S STORY

Ancient Mission of San Xavier del Bac, in Arizona.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.
CROSS Arizona automobile traffic is setting predominantly east now, where it flowed west a few months ago. Much of it comes from California, but to a goodly number of the motorists who have been in quest of milder climates Arizona has been winter home, for it is fast becoming an American Egypt.

In 1920, Arizona's tourist traffic has grown more than 1,000 per cent. Winter playground hunters are drawn to her ever-multiplying hotels, auto camps and dude ranches. In Phoenix on some winter nights 2,500 people sleep in the auto camps. At Flagstaff, among 51 motor cars parked about a hotel, licenses were counted from 22 different states and two from Canada. By train and auto, more than 200,000 people saw the Grand Canyon in one recent year.

Ten years ago a dozen tourists a day, coming from Tucson down to Nogales, were a crowd of sightseers. Last year close to 15,000 motorcar parties visited this bilingual town that sprawls astride the international border. Since the recent completion of the Southern Pacific railroad bed down the Mexican west coast, one may ride from Los Angeles to Mexico City. This puts old Nogales, once but a camping place for Forty-niners, on one of the main railways tying up the two republics—a new channel of north and south tourist travel.

New Grand Canyon Bridge.

One of the highest bridges in the world has been completed recently across the Grand Canyon. One hundred thirty-five miles north of Flagstaff this dizzy structure spans the Colorado. It eliminates the old river crossing known as Lees Ferry, six miles above its site. Until now the only vehicular way through the Canyon was down a narrow, dangerous mountain road that hugged the face of bluffs, to reach Lees Ferry, set up long ago by Mormons migrating to Arizona from Utah. Except the Mormons, Indians, traders, and trappers, very few travelers have ever passed this way.

Yet this path leads through a region of astounding and rugged beauty. From Flagstaff north it crosses the flaming "Painted Desert"; then, over the bridge hung like a giant steel spider web spun between precipitous canyon cliffs, past Bryce Canyon, into the Kaibab National Forest and Zion National Park.

Through countless centuries, until this bridge was built, the great gorge barred man from travel north and south.

In all the United States there were no two post offices "so near and yet so far" apart as those on opposite sides of the Grand Canyon of Arizona before this bridge was built. It is only about eleven miles by air line from the post office at Grand Canyon station, Arizona, on the south rim, to Kaibab Forest station on the north rim. Yet, because it was quicker, until before the bridge opened, was sent via California, Nevada, through Utah, down to Cedar, and thence 170 miles by stage or vice versa, between these post offices, a distance of 1,025 miles, though one station can be seen from the other through field glasses.

Arizona's white population, not including Mexicans, has increased by half per cent since the Spanish-American war, and its wealth has multiplied maybe twenty times. Lonely cow trails are changed to crowded motor lanes, and million-dollar hotels claim their splendor where "hobos" huts and desert skins were long man's only shelter.

High Lights of Arizona's Story. Now, to see modern Arizona whole, look lastly at its map spot and at high lights in its astounding past.

Under the treaty of Gadsden, Idaho in 1859, the United States acquired land only as far south as the Gila river; by the Gadsden Purchase in 1853, it received the rest of that terra incognita later called Arizona territory.

A few studious Americans, delving in early Spanish chronicles, learned that explorers like Cabeza de Vaca and Coronado, and early missionaries like Father Kino, had found here "rivers with banks three leagues high" and mines rich enough to yield a silver nugget so heavy that two miles were lashed together to carry it! From beaver trappers, too, who had ventured down the Colorado, tales of Art-izona's scenic wonders, and especially of its warlike Apaches, had been brought back. But to most Americans practically nothing was known of Arizona; it was too hard of access.

One early delegate to congress reached Washington by way of Panama and is said to have collected $7,000 in mileage! This same delegate, years later, set up a sun-worship cult in Arizona.

To give Arizona a seaport, Mr. Gadsden's own plan was to take in part of Sonora, down to Guaymas. This would have provided a port on the Gulf of California, which might have shifted the whole economic and immigration history of Arizona and probably of northwest Mexico, too. But this plan was not approved; Uncle Sam found himself with a remote, unexplored savage land, hard to reach. So, instead of our "American Egypt" having a seaport on its border, it remains a landlocked region of long rail lines.

This inaccessibility, the character of the country itself, and its savage inhabitants kept Arizona for decades the most backward of all our territories.

Buying Arizona was folly, Eastern people said; its arid wastes were useless. Yet surveys began to show that, for all its evil deserts, had big rich spots of much value; also, now that it belonged to us, we were free to make roads across it, to the up Texas with southern California.

Nearly Isolated for Years.

Yet for twenty years after the Gadsden purchase Arizona communicated with the outside world largely by water. Ships ran from San Francisco to the mouth of the Colorado river, via the Mexican ports of Mazatlan, La Paz, and Guaymas.

A semi-monthly mail and passenger stage line was started in 1857 from San Antonio to San Diego; but at times it cost the government $65 to carry each letter! A year later the historic Butterfield stage began running between St. Louis and San Francisco. An early writer says: "This was one of the grand achievements of the age, to span the continent by a semi-weekly line of stages, under bonds to perform, by sole power of horses, a trip of nearly 2,500 miles within the schedule of 25 days."

It was the trek of people from the South to the West after the Civil war that began to give Arizona population. True to that, white men saw little of it, except the regions about Tucson, the Gila Bend, and Yuma, which lay along the Forty-niners' trails.

Today passengers on fast trains through Arizona complain if the shower in the club car is not cool, or if the barber's razor is dull. Getting "laid out" for two hours at a pace like Tucson with a broken engine is called hardship.

Arizona really began to grow up with the development of her mines by Americans.

Future Seems Assured.

Forces that when mines were worked out Arizona might decline in wealth and population have been allayed since the World war. There are two reasons. First, the increase of farm settlers under new irrigation projects; second, discovery of ways to mine and smelt copper at lower cost.

Where low-grade copper ore occurs in great masses near the top of the ground, as at Bisbee, miners simply blast and use steam shovels. More than 1,000,000 tons of rock have been broken by one "Mam."

One can grasp the size of Arizona's mining industry when it is known that the state employs more than 25,000 men and digs each year 675,000,000 pounds of copper, 17,500,000 pounds of lead, 6,000,000 ounces of silver, and $50,000,000 in gold.

Inevitably, mining will decline; but by that day Arizona believes her increased farm, fruit, live stock, and other growing industries will preserve her economic balance.

Today there is the great Yuma project; the big new dams at Horace Mesa and Mormon Flat, and the new multiple dam, Gavilan dam on the Gila river, near San Carlos. The last named stands in a box canyon, eighty miles above the lands it waters. At present about 4,000 Pima Indian farmers, with 20,000 acres, are the chief beneficiaries. Next, to make the project practical economically, it also waters an equal acre owned by white farmers near Florence and Casa Grande.

President Hoover Delivers Addresses in Three Middle West States—Moves Toward Restoration of Economic Prosperity.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

RESPONSIBILITY for the existing economic depression in the United States should be laid to frozen confidence rather than to frozen assets, according to President Hoover, who addressed the Indiana Republican Editorial Association and its guests in Indianapolis. The Chief Executive expressed his hopes and plans for renewed prosperity which shall be wrought out of the nation's great natural resources by a people with renewed courage; and he vigorously defended the course of his administration in the crisis and denounced panics as recovery.

After alluding to the Russian five-year plan, Mr. Hoover proposed what he called an American plan. Said he: "We plan to take care of 20,000,000 increase in population in the next 20 years. We plan to build for them 4,000,000 new and better homes, thousands of new and still more beautiful city buildings, thousands of factories; to increase capacity of our railroads; to add thousands of miles to our highways and waterways; to install 25,000,000 electrical horse-power. We plan to provide new parks, schools, colleges and churches for this 20,000,000 people. We plan to secure greater diffusion of wealth, a decrease in poverty and a great reduction in crime."

From Indianapolis the President and his party, which included Mrs. Hoover and their son Allan, went to Marion, Ohio, and took part in the dedication of the magnificent memorial to Warren G. Harding. Mr. Hoover delivered the chief address in which he severely condemned the "friends" who betrayed Harding's trust. Former Senator Frelinghuysen, president of the memorial association, presented the memorial to the association, and Calvin Coolidge, who succeeded Harding in the presidency, replied in acceptance. Gov. George White accepted the structure on behalf of the state. Immediately after the ceremonies Mr. Hoover went to Columbus and reviewed a parade of Civil war veterans attending the Ohio G. A. R. encampment.

Next day the presidential party journeyed to Springfield, Ill., for the dedication of the remodeled tomb of Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Hoover was the guest of Governor Emerson and again delivered the main speech at the imposing ceremonies.

The political implications of President Hoover's trip to the Middle West were evident and not denied. The three states he visited have all caused alarm among the Republican leaders by their votes in recent elections. Only last November Illinois replaced a Republican senator with a Democrat and sent five more Democrats to the house in place of Republicans; Ohio elected a Democratic governor and sent six Democrats to congress in place of Republicans, and Indiana replaced six Republican congressmen with Democrats. The Republican managers hoped the presidential tour would have effect in bringing these states back into the fold, and there was also the expectation that it would help in promoting Mr. Hoover's prospects for renomination and re-election. That he is a candidate is no longer in doubt, if it ever was. The recent conference of young Republicans in Washington, under the guidance of Senator Fess, national Republican chairman, made that certain.

IN a letter to leaders of American industry and organized labor the National Civic Federation takes the first step in setting up a ten year plan of systemizing production, eliminating unemployment and integrating the industrial and economic structure of the nation. The letter was signed by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany and now the chairman of the federation's committee on industrial inquiry. It is based on a proposal made by Matthew Wolf, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and urges the calling of a national congress to discuss and formulate a program of industrial readjustment and create permanent machinery for this purpose.

Mr. Gerard's letter was addressed to all leading manufacturers in the country, officials of the American Federation of Labor and heads of all international unions. The letter declares that Mr. Wolf's proposal for a great congress of industry has received the endorsement of the national civic federation and expresses the readiness of the federation to summon such a congress "if it can give reasonable assurance that the response will be such as to make success probable." Manufacturers and labor leaders were asked to state their opinion and that of their organizations on the proposal and to advise whether they would participate in a preliminary meeting that might be held before the formal calling of Congress.

"What is desired is to draw together a great conclave of delegates, not a mere collection of individuals without representative character," Mr. Gerard's letter declared.

FOR the purpose of encouraging other nations to help in the disarmament movement by telling all about their military strength, the United States, through Secretary Stimson, has made public the report on that matter to the League of Nations. The document shows the land, naval and air armaments of the country, giving the exact number of men, warships and aircraft maintained for military and naval purposes. The total number of army reserves is also given, though this information was not asked by the League.

The data gave America's total land effectiveness as 139,057, including 18,050 officers. The National Guard was listed at 10,774 average daily effectiveness and was not included in the total forces because it was reported "not available to the federal government without measures of mobilization."

The total strength of the naval forces was fixed at 109,880, including 10,429 officers and 17,550 enlisted personnel of the marine corps. The total armed air forces, including effectiveness in the army and navy, were placed at 27,324 officers and men, of which 13,155 were credited to the army air corps and 14,169 to the naval air force. The total number of airplanes in the armed forces was listed as 1,752 including 965 army craft and 787 naval planes. Three army and two navy dirigibles, including the Los Angeles, were added.

Japan promptly followed the example set by the United States.

EUROPE rather expects that when Secretary of State Stimson gets over there for his visits to various capital cities it will be revealed that the United States government will consent, under certain conditions, to alter its stand on reparations and war debts. And in this country, there are indications that this may be true. Undersecretary of State William A. Castle gave out a statement the other day to the effect that the government does not consider its position as signifying an inflexible thesis, and there have been strong hints at the White House that President Hoover would not oppose the scaling down of war debts if he were assured this would be followed by ample reductions in European armaments.

Mr. Castle said the government is and always has been minded on the war debt question and has been watching the situation abroad very carefully; he added that no crisis has yet arisen of a nature that would call for any action by this country on the war debts. If such a crisis should arise, he said, it was obvious this government would have to consider whether a temporary change was necessary. Official opinion in Washington was that Mr. Castle's statement was designed to help Chancellor Bruening of Germany in the troubled negotiations of Senator Fess, national Republican chairman, made that certain.

MISS ANNA ADAMS GORDON, former president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and of the World W. C. T. U. died in Castle, N. Y., at the age of seventy-eight years. She was a close friend of the late Frances E. Willard, helped her organize the W. C. T. U. and for many years was her secretary. She was one of the best known of temperance leaders of this generation.

FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt's presidential boom was given a decided boost in Massachusetts by the luncheon given by Col. Edward M. House at his summer cottage near Monhegan-by-the-Sea. The governor of New York was the guest of honor and among those present were the most influential Democratic leaders of the Bay state. Little was said about politics during the luncheon, but the feeling was general that the affair was of considerable political significance, and friends of Mr. Roosevelt are of the opinion that the Massachusetts delegation in next year's national convention will be in line for his nomination. Just before the party rose from the table Colonel House offered a toast to the governor as the man on whom the eyes of the nation are focused.

It will be remembered that Colonel House recently announced that he was corresponding with leading Democrats with a view to promoting Roosevelt's presidential prospects. Among the guests at the luncheon was Henry Morgenthau, like House a close friend of Woodrow Wilson, and it is believed he has associated himself with House in this movement with the sanction of Roosevelt, although the governor has not yet declared himself a candidate for the presidential nomination.

AL CAPONE, the world's most notorious gangster, will have to spend some years in Leavenworth penitentiary. Before Federal Judge Wilkerson in Chicago he pleaded guilty to indictments for evasion of income tax payments and for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. He will be sentenced on June 30, probably to from two to four years in prison. Sixty-eight members of Capone's gang also are under indictment for the liquor law conspiracy. Capone's rule as king of gangland is ended.

JUAN BAUTISTA Perez, obeying a demand made by the congress of Venezuela, resigned from the presidency of that republic, after evading for some time the oral and written suggestions of members of congress that he step out of office. The drive against him was managed by supporters of Juan Vicente Gomez who were determined that the veteran should resume the place he held for 20 years from the time of Castro's downfall until May, 1929. He retired then on his own motion and when Perez was elected to succeed him the constitution was amended to permit Gomez to become commander-in-chief of the army and to be responsible only to congress. An academic, rather than active type, President Perez left the task of putting down insurrections—three of which have occurred since he took office—to General Gomez and his army of 12,000 men.

Gomez, in fact, has been almost as much the ruler of the country since retiring as he was before, and his return to the presidency in the election set for June 19 was considered certain. He is getting to be an old man but retains his youthful vigor and irreverence, and probably is the man Venezuela needs.

WITH all the traditional splendor and ceremony Paul Doumer was inaugurated as the new president of the French republic, succeeding Gaston Doumergue. Premier Laval called at the senate for Mr. Doumer and took him to the presidential palace, then adjourned to the Arc de Triomphe and there, in a solemn ceremony, re-lit the eternal flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier. The rite was especially moving for M. Doumer lost four of his five sons in the war.

President Doumer's first official act was to go to the city hall and be received by the council, after which he proceeded to the Arc de Triomphe and there, in a solemn ceremony, re-lit the eternal flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier. The rite was especially moving for M. Doumer lost four of his five sons in the war. President Doumer received the resignation of Premier Pierre Laval and his cabinet and urgently requested Laval to retain his office. The latter consented and offered for the president's acceptance an unchanged ministry, including Foreign Minister Briand.

NEARLY 500 persons, most of them women and children, perished when a French excursion steamer capsized near St. Nazaire during a storm. Only eight of those aboard the vessel were saved.

The submarine Nautilus, carrying Sir Hubert Wilkins' undersea polar expedition, was disabled in mid-Atlantic by the breaking down of her engines, and was taken in tow by the American vessel Wyoming.

CARDINAL SEGURA, the exiled primate, slipped back into Spain the other day but was promptly apprehended and ushered out again across the French border. His presence in Spain threatened a recurrence of the attacks on church institutions, for the radicals were enraged by the news of his return. The Vatican protested his expulsion.

ONE more member of the federal farm board—the third within a few months—has resigned from the body. He is Samuel M. McElveen, the wheat member of the board, and he said that as his term had just ended presidential acceptance of his resignation was not necessary. His successor has not yet been announced. Mr. McElveen, who took part in the recent grain conference in London, will retire to his large live stock ranch in Nebraska.

A MUTUAL BENEFIT

Merchants who are most completely in touch with their customers' wants and requirements appreciate the convenience and economy in the use of advertising space in the Citizen.

Readers who habitually read the advertisements in these columns have found it worthwhile to do business with those establishments that thus invite their patronage.

The benefits to both the buyer and seller cannot be questioned. A definite advertising policy, however modest, when consistently followed, is sure to be of distinct advantage to all concerned.

A BOY SCOUT ON THE JOB

The following story is told by Richard S. Bond, which illustrates well the practical side of the work of the Boy Scout Movement. How we believe many are unacquainted with this important phase of the Scout work in the community, we publish the story.

The incident was a serious one. Two upturned cars, and half a dozen injured persons by the roadside indicated this at the first glance.

Motors from both directions stopped and did their best to render first aid and get the most seriously injured started for the nearest hospital—which was far away.

That enemy of motorists, shattered glass, had rendered its usual havoc, particularly with one of the drivers from whom came a spattering down an unnailed window pane.

None seemed to know exactly what to do until a mere youth picked his way through the crowd, wrapped his hand kerchief around the patient's arm, allied a pair of knaps beneath it, and then with a new driver, which he picked up from the ground, gave the tourist a few expert twists.

"It did the trick."

"Loosen this for a few seconds every few minutes," he said, "and then tighten it up again. You will have trouble if you don't."

The man was rushed to the hospital and the boy started back along the line of automobiles. Someone who had watched the boy stopped him and asked him where he had learned to stop an unnailed window.

"It's one of the first things a Boy Scout has to learn," he said with a smile, "but I guess I will just call it my good fortune today. You know we pledge ourselves to do at least one good turn daily and I was just telling Dad that I was behind time for today."

And that's all the boy had to say about saving a life. He probably did not even realize that he had taught a score of adults the real meaning of being prepared.

IN MAINE

Henry Merrill with his 13 Class from Portland conducted services at Hunt's Corner Sunday, June 21.

Weather reports will be made from Maine at three hour intervals day and night after July 15th. This service will be rendered by nine special employees of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

It is destined to be of great value to the air-way service.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

I. A. Edwards, Pastor

10:45. Morning Worship. Sermon by the Pastor. His subject will be "Burdens."

There are some burdens that help; others that hinder. What kind are you carrying?

We have come to the vacation period.
How are we to use it? The church will try to maintain its services during this period, for we believe that we can not, in the best interest of the community,
surrender altogether to the holiday spirit. There are moral and spiritual values that must be considered. So let us with one accord endeavor to do this.

In the contest in the church school the Girls won by a good margin, and it was the purpose to close our school with a good old fashioned Sunday school picnic, but it seems wise to defer this event for a little because of the prevailing epidemics; but we wish to assure all of the members that it will be held at a later date.
